PROFESSOR PARTRIDGE

In the death of Professor Partridge the student body has lost a wise counselor and a true friend. Through his work in assisting students to obtain employment he became well acquainted with individual problems and his sympathy and understanding were always given freely as a valuable complement to his efficient service.

When students were ill, it was Professor Partridge's pleasure to assemble his mandolin club and play for those who could not be at school. "To help others" was a principle that found active expression in his life. He lived up to his ideals of service and to his religion. He saw the many ways to help, always that the least thoughtful would overlook. In living up to true B. Y. standards of service he has set an example valuable to us.

A DATE FOR GIRLS' DAY

From time to time we hear complaints that the vast majority of the men are not being duly invited to the Girls' Day Ball. To consider the ultimate cause of such neglect would take us back to other dances where the girls have not received desired invitations. So all things being considered, we might say, "It's all your own fault if you aren't invited. You didn't ask 'em." Indeed, it seems that the practically the only excuse advanced when girls solemnly remark, "I don't know who to ask. No girl that is really thinking on the subject could come to this ostentatious conclusion." Would it not be well to do unto others as they would have us do unto them? Some of them need instruction and most of them would welcome the suggestion. They might do better after Girls' Day and this is the one greatest opportunity for girls to save their colors.

Now the first step in making a date is to decide on the man this should be very well when you stop to realize that the men really want to be invited and that they will be more pleased than surprised even if it is your first real conversation. However, make things as brief as possible. Don't "beat it around the bush," just come out plain and suddenly, as you would appreciate the situation if the tables were reversed. It may be necessary, in some isolated instances, to begin a conversation in a useful way that will gradually lead to the object in view. Do not make the conversation too extensive. You must be sure to show him that you know HOW.

After the date is made the next duty is to get a program and get it filled out, then purchase tickets for the dance drama and be sure that all details are remembered. See that your partner dances the dance drama and try to undergo any delay that might reflect on his popularity. Always return to your partner at the end of each dance and be sure to show him that you know HOW.

ELECTIONS ARE OVER

If you are still campaigning, it's time to stop. The elections are over! The several candidates and the results of the various campaigns and their parties have been settled enough for you to rest. Two weeks were set apart for this purpose and any further remarks on the subject are entirely out of order.

Campaign managers and special friends have landed their favorites while friendly enemies have attempted to accomplish the opposite. Some are still engaged in the latter but these few are just a week behind the times. It is no time to fear down, and our efforts should be directed in building up. It makes no difference whom we elected, it is our duty to support them to insure the success of the student body for next year.

Browsing Society Gives Entertainment

The Browsing Society entertained in the Art Club on Wednesday, May 9, in honor of Browning's birthday. Mrs. Marion Johnson, president of the society, conducted the program which was as follows:

"The Song of the Sips" by F. P. Flower and "Song from Pippa Passes" by Richard Coe.

"Browning in the Future" by Olga Wenden.

Reading, "The Grammarian's Funeral" by Alice Bly.

Thoughts from Rabbi Ben Ezra" by "The Prophet" by LaVine Hanks. The society then sang "I will be a Wife" and "All Love but a Day" by Mrs. E. P. Flower.

Reading, "My Lady Duncun," by Mrs. T. Earl Foster.

The society then served to a hundred guests. The officers of the society and the Browning extension class acted as hostesses. The room was decorated in beautiful style by the Troy Girls' house.

"I say there! Where does Sir Oliver Lodge?"

"The same place Ouida boards."

Reformer—Young man do you realize that you will never get anywhere by doing?

Steward—Isn't it the truth? I've earned home from this corner five times already.

Aggie Decline Oration Invitation

A letter has been received by the manager of Forwards from the A. C. declining the invitation of the Young University to enter into its invitational oratorical contest. No reply has been received thus far from the University of Utah.

The letter from the Aggies was received last week. It stated that the A. C. has no special department for oratory and as the debaters have done well this year no help can be expected from them. Thus they wished to decline the invitation.

As to word has been received from the Crimson 'T' it is thought they will wish to enter as it has been three weeks since I wrote to them," said Manager Condie in his report of the situation.

Political Parties Match Programs

Various types of programs and candidates were put forward for inspection in the program held Friday morning. The "Blue Struck" had first looking for a round of twenty-five minutes, after which the "Great White Way" assumed control of the official time.

The "blue struck" had a program straight at the people in the audience, after making the radical statement that no speaking should be indulged in. As a fitting introduction Richard Condie voiced the contents of all the male members of the school by singing "Women Are Fickle." Mr. Hume was a typical campaigner. He announced that the number would be known, but that the appreciative audience could show its satisfaction at the polls.

The first idea of "blue struck" superiority was voiced by Elyse Christensen in a little rhymer. Her poem, "Men Candidates were loaded to the skies when Elyse Hume sang of their merits." "Too" Elyse gave a artistic rendition of chalk readings. He drew to satisfaction and pretentious colorful pictures of disillusionment and

OSMOND GIVES READINGS.

Professor Alfred Osmond read at the Young Normal College in Ogden last Thursday morning.

He gave many selections from Shakespeare. He had a large and appreciative audience consisting of the students and faculty. He was rewarded with such favor that he has been engaged for next year, to limit his readings to one of the famous horse plays.

Professor Osmond will read at the West High school in Salt Lake next Friday.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR BELOVED PROFESSOR

tabulated there a scholar." President T. N. Taylor spoke of the world and aggressive life led by Professor Partridge and of his great energy and anxiety in doing the work of the Lord.

A familiar quartet sang a composition of Professor A. C. Lund. "Sing, Heavy Heart, Yearn for Me." This was the first time the quartet had been sung in public. The quartet consisted of A. C. Lund, Henry Hargrave, Cannon Lund, John V. Smith, Louise Hargrave, General, Elmer Taylor and Mary Lindsey.

"We are not having been Brother Partridge without knowing him better," said Dr. Franklin Stewart Harris of the Young University. "We are based down in Provo, but out of sorrow comes many great things."

"The greatest architecture and sculpture in the world has come out of the sorrow of the death of the great Master. The great pieces of literature have come from those who have mourned over the loss of a loved one."

"I would like to see us deeply regret in our hearts to see him as a great stimulant in our lives."

"As I have seen Brother Partridge in almost application to duty and in enjoyment of life, I have thought that his life consisted more than any one else the 'Mormon' doctrine, 'Man that he may have joy.'"

"He has carried the name of Partridge and has added lustre to that great name. Great responsibility rests on those who have to carry on the name in honor to him and his progenitors."

"E. D. Partridge was my friend, my teacher, my loving, my brother, and I loved him." President T. N. Taylor sang, "Oh Grave Where is Thy Victory?" Scott P. Stewart pronounced the benediction.

As the casket was being removed from the tabernacle music was played "Come, Come, Ye Saints," which was composed by one of Professor Partridge's granddaughters.

Professor Sear's quartet sang played some selections at the grave in the city cemetery. The dedication prayer was pronounced by President V. W. Knight.

Professor E. D. Partridge was killed in a train wreck the Denver and Rio Grande railroad two and one half miles west of Geary, Utah, at midnight, Wednesday.

Professor Partridge left Provo at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. He intended going to Norfolk, Virginia, where he was to be delivered at the convention of the American Association of Engineers. Following that convention he expected to study during the summer at the Agricultural College at Ames, Iowa.

At nine o'clock Thursday morning, Carl Marcussen, banker and prominent business at Price, Utah, telegraphed to the B. Y. U., informing President Harris that Professor Partridge was among the dead, and that he himself had identified the body.

Dr. George H. Bernhardt then went to the Partridge home to break the sad news to Miss Partridge.

It was said that Professor Partridge had taken on a traveler's accident policy for $500 just before leaving Provo. The railroad ticket agent is said to have urged him to do this, and Professor Partridge, jokingly remarked that while he had ridden on many trains he had never believed such a policy necessary, he purchased the insurance to humor the train.

Ernest Dalton Partridge was born June 13, 1869, at Tiffn, Miller County, Iowa. He was the son of Edward Partridge and Sarah Loretta Cayton. He was baptised in the L. D. S. Church in 1887. After holding several church offices, he was ordained a high priest April 20, 1902, by Rudger Clawson. When twenty years of age he accompanied his father to the Hawaiian Islands, where the family spent about three years. Locating in Provo in 1885, he attended the B. Y. Academy, and he has spent most of his life in the school room ever since. In 1886 he settled on the Provo Bench, where he acted as second counselor in the ward of Y. M. I. A. From 1887 to 1890 he studied in the Michigan Agricultural College and graduated with the degree of B. S. He was also chosen to join the Tan Beta Psi fraternity, which society is organized for the purpose of keeping track of the best men who go over the school and counseling them in this honorary fraternity. He was chosen because of any man in the college. He became a favorite athlete and won seven gold and silver medals for fencing etc. He was also honored as graduation with the privilege of delivering the commencement address.

August 16, 1890, he married Elizabeth Tramm of Lansing, Michigan, the daughter of Abraham R. Tramm and Gertrude Harrison, who was born January 25, 1872. This union was blessed with five children, namely: Ruth L., Truman E., Ernest D., Gertrude E., and Elyria M.

In 1896 Mr. Partridge commenced teaching in the Young University and has taught in this institution for each, except three years. From the fall of 1899 to the spring of 1902, he was principal of the Beaver branch of the B. Y. U. He also acted as presiding elder of the Beaver branch from October 22, 1899, till the spring of 1902.

He spent most of the year 1908 in Kensington, Utah County, Utah, assisting and supervising. For three years he acted as a member of the city council from the Fourth ward. From April 20, 1902, to 1907, he was bishop of the Provo Fourth ward from 1902 to 1907 and was later a member of the Utah state high council for a number of years.

He has recently been very much interested in genealogy, and was head of the genealogy work of Utah state.

"Y" WINS AND LOSES COLLEGES TO MIX IN RAQUET MATCHES IN STATE MEET

By LYNN TAYLOR.

The "Y" net team trimmed the University of Utah sharks by a score of three matches out of five in the round of tennis last Thursday on the Wooden Meadow court.

The doubles match between Smith and Miller of Utah vs. Manson and Gardner of the B. Y. U. was a great flag affair which went this way. The "Y" team finally emerged victorious after outlasting their opponents.

Ernest and Taylor defeated Hanson and Christiansen, having both sides easily in assessing three straight sets. The single match between Mary and Elizabeth was a pinpoint play which took most of the afternoon, Mary finally winning after five sets had been played.

Utah, easily defeated Bennett, the Utah captain, 6-1, 6-0. Hanson lost to either in a fast set, the former going unable to adjust to the latter's style until the last set.

The scores were: Ernest and Taylor beat Hanson and Christiansen 10-6, 7-5, 6-4; Manson and Gardner beat Smith and Miller 6-2, 5-7, 6-4; 7-5; Bennett beat 6-1, 7-5; Miller beat Manson 6-2, 5-7, 6-4; 7-5; Mary beat Elizabeth 7-5, 6-4.

The U. A. C. squad met the locals 1-4, 6-4, in the latest net event staged in Provo.

Hammond and Howells were soundly in winning from them and Gardner after a clever hand fought Utah. The "Y" men in both defeats took the teamwork displayed by the Provoers.

Ernest and Taylor were also noted by Merrill and Rich after a hard battle, the first set going 1-6. Markham ("Y") was defeated by Wagner (Utah) after a close and hard fight.

Ernest, the "Y" men came back and decisively won from Hammond, the Aggie's big gun, in the first after using a deep chop with deadly precision. Frank made it impossible for Hammond to use his left-hand success, winning the two sets handily.

Manson likewise played a hard game and took in both. Tangue were given even the first set but Manson got stronger and easily won the second.

The results: Hammond and Howells beat Olson and Gardner; Merrill and Rich beat Manson and Taylor; Vernon beat Markham; Manson beat Rich.

The nine students will save enough of their monthly allowance to attend the performance of the "Red Mill," Monday, May 14, Columbia Theatre.

From April 20, 1902, to 1907, he was bishop of the Provo Fourth ward from 1902 to 1907 and was later a member of the Utah state high council for a number of years.

He has recently been very much interested in genealogy, and was head of the genealogy work of Utah state.

"Y" WINS AND LOSES COLLEGES TO MIX IN RAQUET MATCHES IN STATE MEET

With the state meet less than three days off, Coach Patchell is far from discouraged regarding the chances of his team. Several of his best men will be unable to compete Saturday which may take the "Y" team much stronger than the one he will send to Salt Lake City.

Mason, Partridge and Sanderson, all good first place, may not be the line up.

It is not impossible that Mabel Miller may be entered in the quarter mile event. According to well founded rumor the brick-pot had been checked at 52.5 in trying to set his ability at this distance.

Fern confidently expects to see "Tarns" Helling, track break, own previous record in Saturday's meet.

On the whole the "Y" camp is not optimistic about its chances to duplicate last year's feat but will be represented by a squad of men who will fight to the last ditch.

MARRIED WOMEN TO MEET.

All married women of the school, including wives of students, and out of two hundreds of students, are to be present at a kindergarten at the Art Gallery Thursday, May 10, at 2 o'clock. A special program consisting of musical numbers, recitations, and other items of interest will be presented. Refreshments will be served and a good time is assured. The wives of the married students of the B. Y. U. recently organized this. This will be the first of a series of socials that will be given and it is desired that all members attend to continue the success of the organization.
